A little more info.

- The campground opens on May 13th, 2011 and closes on October 10th, 2011. Next season will open on May 11th 2012.
- It is about 25 kilometres (20 miles) between the entrance of Île d'Orléans and our campground. The distance is the same if you come by the north or the south shore.
- You will see only one service station once you have crossed over the bridge and entered the village of St-Pierre. Check your gage, as there are none afterwards.
- There is only one shop that sales propane on the island. If ever you are short, the campground can help out.
- Access to our showers cost 1.00 $ (no quarters) and last 8 minutes.
- You will profit from a large variety of restaurants close to the campground -from fine dining to regional specialties- including an inn and two small diners within a range of one kilometre. We also offer you a convenience store right on the campground!
- The St-François dock, neighbour to our campground, includes an access to the river for your boat, kayak or canoe. Please note that we do not rent any such equipment.
- A fishing permit is not required to fish from the dock. Your patience may be rewarded ... maybe.
- At low tide, an easy walk on the shore will take you right to the tip of the island. The view is breathtaking! The campground office will inform you on the tide schedules.
- You need more information on the other attractions on Orleans island or on Quebec City ? Our people at the reception desk will be happy to fill your needs. We make it our duty to have on hand a large variety of pamphlets and free touring guides. You can also have a look at the menus from the island's restaurants or check the daily weather forecasts. Our public hall offers information on dozens of species of birds that «camp» with us. You will also find complete details on the liners that are scheduled to pass right under your nose this coming season. Having some trouble? It will be our pleasure to refer you to the closest garage, hardware store, drug store, medical centre, grocery store, etc.

Welcome!
